To make this an easy transition for everyone, we have some recommendations. We understand the first day of school is very difficult for some children (as well as parents), the easiest thing to do is to give your child one quick hug and kiss and allow our caring staff to help your child get adjusted to their new school and class. The longer the parents stay and try to console children, the longer the crying will continue. Please do not feel bad about leaving your child if they are crying, our staff will do our best to allow your child to get comfortable with the environment as well as the staff and help your child get acclimated. The longer you stay the harder this adjustment period will be and more of a distraction to the rest of the class. We do not want your child to feel stressed out in a new environment and feel uncomfortable coming to school. Another suggestion, if you are able to leave your child for just a short amount of time the first couple of days, this will help your child trust that you will come back to get him/her and help with the transitional period. If there are any problems during the day or if your child continues to cry for an unreasonable amount of time, we will call you.

Welcome to CVMS!

Sincerely,
